"I met Dario in 1999 when we were both admitted to the Italian National School of Public Administration. We have worked together in several occasions since then, and I did much appreciate his management, human resources, IT and foreign languages skills. He has a real eye for detail and leaves no stones unturned in his attempts to get to the heart of issues. Imaginative and talented, with an amazingly wide spectrum of competences and interests, Dario contradicts the common "Yes-man" stereotype of the civil servant, being an inspired executive that continually challenges conventional thought and previously accepted solutions to drive the evolution of Public Administration forward. Luckily, his serious side is balanced by a healthy irony and sense of humour, and an ability to make people at ease, what makes a real pleasure to work with him."

"Dario is a professional with sound background in management. He has immense potential, and the ability to combine theory and practice to reach outstanding results. He has a vast culture and he is able of deep insights in different cultures. And he has a great sense of humor. Strongly recommend him."
